SACRAMENTO LETTER.

SACRAMENTO, NOV. 29, 1873. THANKSOIVING.

Our thanksgiving was observed by general suspension of business, and the observance of religious services by a union of all the Protestant churches of the city at Kingsley Chapel. In the evening, a concert, interspersed with cadings, was given in the Lecture room of the Presbyterian Church. In addition to the music, which was passable, Rev. Mr. Shelling read "the Bridge of Sighs." Miss Jenny Dumphy read "The Painter of Seville." Albert Hart recited "The Pioneers of California;" all of which was well done. Miss Dumphy's reading was of a very high order. She is a young lady who has had no other docational advantages than those of-fered by our city public achools, except a few private lessons in elecution, given by Prof. Home—formerly Principal of our High School.

our High School.

In this connection it may be a fact pleasant to old residents of Austin to know that Rev. J. L. Trefren is now pastor of Kingsly Chapel, and, with his tamily, is residing in our city. I learn that he has already become very popular to his chapel.

BASS. 10 DELLEGO A little before daylight the precious irops of rain were heard pattering on the mofs but it did not last long. Enough has fallen to lay the dust, and soil the has fallen to lay the dust, and soil the ladies slippers on the cressings. It is quite cloudy, and the indications for more rain is good. Farmers are becoming very anxious about rain. Many are waiting on the rain to plow and plant their crops for the coming year.

The members of the Legislature are fast arriving, and candidates for positions from the principal clerk to page, are very busy. "Allow me to introduce my friend Jones." "He's a candidate for has become so familiar to the car as scarcely to attract the attention of any other than a rival candidate. It is remarkable how meny orphan boys are any other than a rival candidate. It is remarkable how meny orphan boys are candidates for Page. Nearly all are sup-porting widowed mothers. A very large number have seen service in the field, and all were on the Union side.

The question most discussed just now s as to how the Legislature is to be organized; not so much "how" as by whom. The talk to-day is that the Democrats will hold a caucus as well for pemocrats will hold a caucus as well for organization as for Senator; also that the Republicans will do the same, at least for Senator. In the Assembly the Republicans, Democrats and Independents are nearly equally divided; in the Senate the Republicans largely predominate the Democrats come next, there being but eight Independents in that body.

THE SPRAKERSHIP. For this position the Republicans present Freeman, of Yolo, so far as heard from. The Democrats present Pelham, of Nevada and Tinnin of Trinity. The Independents present Estee, of San Francisco. The present indications favor the success of Estee (you will know by telegraph before this reaches you.)

The present outlook justifies me in saving that there will be but two candi lates in the field. Booth and Casserly. The chances now are more favorable to a coalition between Eepublicans and Ina coalition between Republicans dependents than between Independents and Democrats. Ten days ago I would have expressed a contrary opinion.

PAINT POISONING.— Investigations of much interest into the character of the emanations of metallic paints made by an experienced house painter in Paris, to ascertain whether emenations from certain paints containing such substances as white lead, zinc white, linseed oil, essence of intravince and oil. oil, essence of turpentine, coal oil, etc., are injurious to health, show some note-worthy results. He caused the insides are injurious to health, show some note-worthy results. He caused the insides of some boxes to be painted, and within them he placed wire cages containing rabbits, which were not in contact with the paint, but only subject to the influence of the emenations from it. The rabbits suffered while the paint was fresh, especially when it contained coal oil, but none of them died. Living in apartments recently painted, and which emit the odor of oil of turpentine, is not, therefore, permanently injurious to health. Some other tests were made for the purpose of obtaining deposits of these emenations from the fresh paintings of houses. In stead of rabbits, plates containing a small quantity of water were placed in the boxes, and, after the water had evaporated from the plates, there were found some remarkable crystalizations like needles, consisting of combinations in which the oils employed formed the principal part. These crystaline combinations were obtained even when linseed was used.—

How the Apaches Por the Question.
Even those copper-colored cut-throats, the Apache Indians, have a touch of delicacy and romance in them. From a lecture delivered in San Francisco by Colonel John C. Cremony, we take the following account of their courting customs: Every young girl is at liberty to refuse a suitor for her hand. The father, mother and brother are prohibited from interfering in her choice. Her person is at her own disposal. After a brief courtship the lover makes a formal proposal by offering so many horses. Horses are a stundard of value among Indians. As the squaw does all the work, horses are accepted as an equivalent for her labor. When a young warrior becomes enamored he fastens his horse near the wigwam of the squaw whose hand he seeks, where he is left four days. If she falls to feed and water the horse during that time, the master is rejected; but if she accepts his offer she grooms and kindly cares for the horse and then ties him to the wigwam of her lover, as much as to say, "I am willing to be your slave and do your work." At the marriage the sagee and sachems meet together, and the bride is not unfrequently loaded with forty to fifty pounds of silver and copper trinkets.
